YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

A Brave and Faithful Dog—A Pretty Good Sermon—The Kicking Kangaroo.

Deeds of heroism have been enacted in Alaska which history will never forget. Truth prints a story of one party of prospectors who owe their lives to a dog.

Upon the desolate waste of that inhospitable glacier, the Valdes, which has proved a sepulcher to so many bright hopes and earnest aspirations, last winter a party of prospectors were camped. Day after day they had worked their way forward, death disputing every foot with them, until it was decided that the main party should remain in camp, and two of their number, accompanied only by a dog, should endeavor to find a trail which would lead away from the glacier.

For days the two men wandered until nature succumbed, and they lay down, weary and exhausted. Their faithful companion clung to them, and the warmth of his body was grateful as they crouched low with the bitter, ice laden wind howling about them.

Their scanty stock of provisions was well nigh exhausted when one of them suggested sending the dog back to camp. This was a forlorn hope, but their only one. Quickly writing a few words on a leaf torn from a book, the made it fast round the dog's neck, and encouraged him to start back on the trail.

The sagacious animal did not appear to understand, but after repeated efforts he persuaded him to start, and he was soon swallowed up in the snow, the mist and the storm.

Two days and nights passed, during which the men suffered untold agonies. On the evening of the third day, when all hope had gone and they were becoming resigned to their fate, out of the blinding and drifting snow bounded the faithful dog, and close behind him came ready hands to minister to their wants.

The remainder of the story is simple. The whole party returned, having abandoned their useless quest, and on the last steamer going south were two grateful men and a very ordinary looking dog. "That dog will never want as long as we live," said a grizzled and sunburned man.

A Pretty Good Sermon.
A story of a bright eyed, barefooted, shabby little fellow is told by Forward. He was working his way through a crowded car, offering his papers in every direction in a way that showed him well used to the business and of a temperament not easily daunted.

The train started while he was making change, and the conductor, passing him, laughed.

"Caught this time, Joe?" he said. "You'll have to run to Fourteenth street."

"Don't care," laughed Joe in return. "I can sell all the way back again."

A white haired old gentleman seemed interested in the boy and questioned him concerning his way of living and his earnings. There was a younger brother to be supported, it appeared. Jimmy was lame and couldn't "earn much himself."

"Ah, I see! That makes it hard. You could do better alone."

The shabby little figure was erect in a moment, and the denial was prompt and somewhat indignant.

"No, I couldn't! Jim's somebody to go home to. He's got a lot of help. What would be the good of havin' luck if nobody was glad, or of gettin' things if there was nobody to divide with?"

"Fourteenth street!" called the conductor. And as the newsboy plunged out into the gathering dusk the old gentleman remarked to nobody in particular, "I've heard many a poorer sermon than that!"

The Interrupted Sermon.
"My text," said the colored deacon as the Bible lay upside down before him, "is, 'In his time he will cut the whole tree up on swallered down.'"

Here an old brother in the amen corner rose and said:

"Dat ain't de right word, brother; 'in de book you can find de place.'"

"In his time he will pass," continued the deacon, frowning down on him, "dat de whole tree up on swallered down," and my only regret is dat de jussan dat has interrupted dis meetin' won't in de same heat wid him, so de whole could er swallered him too."

If a Woman

wants to put out a fire she doesn't heap on oil and wood. She throws on water knowing that water quenches fire. When a woman wants to get well from diseases peculiar to her sex she should not add fuel to the fire already burning her life away. She should not take worthless drugs and potions composed of harmful narcotics and opiates. They do not check the disease—they do not cure it—they simply add fuel to the fire.

Bradfield's Female Regulator should be taken by every woman or girl who has the slightest suspicion of any of the ailments which afflict women. They will simply be wasting time until they take it. The Regulator is a purifying, strengthening tonic, which acts at the roots of the disease and cures the cause. It does not drug the pain, it eradicates it. It stops falling of the womb, leucorrhea, inflammation and periodical suffering, irregular, scanty or painful menstruation; and by doing all this drives away the hundred and one aches and pains which drain health and beauty, happiness and good temper from many a woman's life. It is the one remedy above all others which every woman should know about and use.

What She Was.

"Did you notice how everybody looked around at that Mrs. Plumpley when the parson talked about the divorce evil. She was the cynosure for all eyes."

"Yes; she was the sinner, sure!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Graciously Granted.

"Ah," he sighed, "may I not hope that you will be mine forever and forever?"

"Yes," she replied softly, "you may hope that long if you wish."—Catholic Standard and Times.

THE OPEN DOOR POLICY.

The Attitude of China's Empress Is Not Favorable.

SHANGHAI, March 15.—The American association here telegraphed to the United States government today that the attitude of the empress dowager towards the reformers will upset the "open door" policy. They also say rebellion and anarchy are expected to the detriment of foreign interests and advocate prompt concerted action on the part of the powers.

The China association will appeal to the British minister, Sir Claude M. MacDonald, on the same subject.

President Coming to Georgia.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 15.—Despite rumors to the contrary and official denials, it is an assured fact that President McKinley will come to Thomasville for a vacation the latter part of this week or early next week. This information is obtained from a source which is considered thoroughly reliable.

Wampler Sentenced to Hang.

KNOXVILLE, March 14.—A special to The Sentinel from Middlesboro says John M. Wampler was sentenced to hang at Gladeville, Va., for killing William Jenkins at Norton, Va., three weeks ago. Wampler is a leading business man of that section and Jenkins was a prominent attorney.

Testimonial From Judge Gaston.

GREENVILLE, Ala., Aug. 10, 1899. I take great pleasure in testifying to the purity and the merit of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water. This natural mineral tonic, to my personal knowledge, is taken from a well three miles east of Greenville, in the exact condition in which it is sold. I have seen this water used, with wonderful success, for dyspepsia, indigestion, sore eyes and for eruptive diseases, sores and ulcers on man and animal. As a remedy for these troubles, I do not believe its equal exists. It is highly recommended by physicians for a number of diseases.
